He must take care that no through traffic should be charged.

3. The President reserves to himself the power of refusing or accepting the highest or any bid that may be offered without assigning any reason therefor. The President further reserves to himself the power to dispose of the right by tenders or otherwise, if the bids obtained at the auction are not considered satisfactory.

He shall also furnish security for the regular payment of the monthly instalments. The amount of security deposit will be adjusted to the last khists.

6. If the deposit is not made and the security is not furnished immediately after the close of the sale, the contract will be resold at the risk of the approved bidder. If default is made in the payment of instalments, interest at one pie per rupee per month will be levied till the date of payment, and the contract will also be liable to be sold again at the discretion of the President and the deficit, if any, will be recovered from the contractor or his surety.

7. The contractor is also bound to keep an account showing the daily collections, and it shall be open to inspection by the President, Vice-President, or such other officer or councillor of the Municipality as the President may specially authorise in this behalf. At the end of every month, a copy of the account shall be sent to the Vice-President for check. 9. The contractor will have the use of the existing toll houses and gates and he will be required to keep them in good repair.

10. The contractor should conform generally to the rules published with the late Chief Commissioner's Notification No. 274, dated 4th November 1876, regarding the levy of tolls and also to rules sanctioned by Government in their Order No. 2441—Ml. 69-14-137, dated 20th September 1915.

The fines so imposed shall be at once paid up by the contractor, and in case of default, it shall be competent to the President to suspend further collection of toll by the contractor and to dispose of the right to collect toll during the remaining period of the year by sale or otherwise as he may determine, such resale or other disposal being at the risk of the defaulting contractor in the manner explained in condition 6.

15. The imposition of a fine or the cancellation of the contract under the preceding para shall be no bar to the prosecution of the contractor or his employees for any offences or to the institution of other legal steps against them under any law in force for the time being.
